Dated: 16th September, 2021

Dear Madam/Sir,

As you might be aware, National Sample Survey Office (NSSO) is a premier organisation of Government of India which is responsible for conducting of large scale sample surveys in diverse fields on various socio-economic subjects on All-India basis. NSSO releases its bi-annual technical journal named as 'Sarvekshana' and has been releasing the said journal since July, 1977.

2.   Sarvekshana provides critical analysis of the survey techniques and findings based on the surveys conducted by the NSS. It provides an opportunity to the researchers to write technical articles for possible publication in the journal, leading to possible improvements of survey methodology in future rounds of NSS. It also provides an opportunity to data users of NSO to go through the research findings of the authors of the technical articles published in the journal and improve their data analysis. The reports and unit level data can be accessed at www.mospi.gov.in.

3.   Research scholar, academic fraternity and others of your institute can send papers to the Director, SCD, National Statistical Office (NSO), Ministry of Statistics & Programme Implementation (MoSPI), Sankhyiki Bhawan, Delhi-110032; email:nssocpd.coord@mospi.gov.in as per guidelines provided in the MoSPI website: www.mospi.gov.in.

4.   I request you to kindly get above information published among research scholars/academic fraternity and others who would like to contribute the research papers and also help in improving the quality of Sarvekshana.

Regards,

Yours sincerely,

(Pravin Horo Singh)
